OIL DRILLING IN COUNTY PROGRESSES

Total Controls Seen As Part of War Cost

WASHINGTON, Jan. 4— President Truman held out a hope Thursday of peace in 1951. But he forecast just about total control of prices and wages as part of the cost of rearming the nation.

The president hinted that he'll ask Congress in his State of the Union message Monday to remove the curbs on his power to control farm prices. He already has strong power to control other prices, as well as wages, and he said he will use this power as soon at is is physically possible.

In a rapid-fire exchange with reporters at his weekly news conference, Truman said:

The United States is not at war but is carrying out an obligation for the United Nations. He won't predict the chances of avoiding war in 1951, but he sincerely hopes all the world's troubles can be settled by negotiation through the United Nations.

No consideration is being given to bombing Red China, and no such action will be taken without asking approval of the United Nations.

His staff is working on the tremendous job of setting up price controls all the time. He thinks it will be necessary eventually to have complete, across-the-board price and wage controls. As for rationing, the president said we'll cross that bridge when we get to it.

Water Department Official Releases Monthly Statement

L. W. Smith, manager at the Cameron Water Department has announced that the income at the Water Department for the month of December was $4,050.31.

These monthly reports released by the Water Department gives an itemized statement of the income and expenses for the previous month and from these reports the citizens of the city of Cameron can readily see that the Water Company is paying off with good dividends.

The expenses for the month of December totaled $1,371.54, consisting of salaries of $810.00; office supplies, $172.92; Auto Expense, $1.25; Maintenance and Repair, $70.71; Plant Operation, $309.96 and allowances, $6.70. Deducting expenses for the month makes a net profit of $2,678.77.

The installation of the meter system and the purchase of the water plant are the most beneficial steps toward progress, the city has made during the past twenty five years. The last major step taken by the City Government was the issuance of $50,000. in warrants in 1925 to pave the streets in the city. This was a quarter of a century ago.

Since Milam County is chiefly an agricultural center. a Farmer's Market or a concentration center for farm commidities and produce is greatly needed in this area for farmers who are unable to ship their produce to distant markets.

Enemy Driven Back On Wonju Front

TOKYO, Wednesday, Jan. 10—Allied troops, charging through a blinding snowstorm with fixed bayonets, hurled the Communists back about three miles Tuesday on the southern approaches of the central Korean transport hub of Wonju.

The final lunge of a wild day of fighting at dusk carried the doughboys and their cohorts to the summit of high hills only two miles from Wonju, United Press correspondent Joe Quinn reported today from the Central Korean front.

The Allied counterattack, the first of its size since the collapse of the ill fated home-by-Christmas offensive, stemmed a massive Communist drive down through Central Korea in a bid to cut the withdrawal route of the U. S. Army.

It was a double-pronged attack that drove the fiercely resisting North Korean Communists back onto Wonju, the strategic bastion in the Korean mountains which they won Monday after three days of bitter battle.

And it was strictly an Infantry and artillery fight, it was reported, since the swirling snow cut visibility to 20 yards, cut off air support, and made tanks ineffective.

The GIs and their buddies rushed the North Koreans from one defensive position to another. In the twilight hour when the fighting men usually dig in for the night, the Allies swung a Sunday punch that landed them on the heights outside the shattered town.

Increased Interest Noted In Drilling

At the present there are six oil wells being drilled in Milam County, it was announced by Sam Hohenstein, local oil man, Thursday morning.

For the past three decades there has been several deep wells drilled in Milam County, some nearing the 5,500 foot mark.

All of the drillings are taking place in communities surrounding Cameron, nothing in the city limits has been erected to creat any excitement. Considerable interest has been created in the rural areas of the county as to the possibility of Milam County bringing in an oil well.

Recently, near Lott in Falls County, a 500 barrel well was brought in and there is a possibility that a number of other wells may be drilled in that area.

Two wells are being drilled in the southwest section of the county, one in the Sharp Community on the R. F. Lindhorst place, with H. C. McDaniels, driller, and one on the Ike Camp Ranch in the San Gabriel Community where Roland Paxson and Co. are drilling.

At Burlington on the Crenan Ranch a well is being dropped and on the Joe Bartek Farm in the Marak Community with the Associated Drillers in charge of drilling operations. A well has been in progress on the J. D. Nelson Place on Sandy Creek for almost a year but operations have been interrupted from time to time.

It was disclosed also that J. E. Franks, north Texas Driller, is erecting a rig on a farm in the Briary Community.

Many tests have been made during recent years in all sections of the county and since many drilling operations are now in progress the outlook for oil prospects is good.

State Of Texas Awarded Funds For Air Raid Shelters

Austin Texas,— Texas' share of federal air raid shelter funds will be $39,825,000, Gov. Allan Shivers was advised Saturday.

Based on percentage of "urban critical target areas," Texas will get 3.54 per cent of the $1,125,000,000 Congress planns to set aside for civilian shelters. Shivers has advised mayors and county judges confidentially whether federal authorities have specified any target area in each locality.

Many city and county officials have inquired about the program, according to William L. McGill, secretery who handles defense matters in the Governors office.

Shivers added that civil defense will be a main topic in the first message to the Legislature next Thursday.

The law awaiting the President's signature will require the state or local communities to match the federal air-raid fund. It provides also that none can be spent on any project intended for any use except shelters. An underground parking area, for example, would be barred, according to the interpretation given here.

Reconstruction Finance Corporation has money available for help on projects which may serve a dual purpose, McGill added.

18-Year Olds Draft Asked For Defense

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5— The Defense Department will ask congress within two weeks for a blanket draft of all physically fit 18-year-olds to serve 27-to-30 months in uniform, a high official said today.

The program may be under way by July 1 if Capitol Hill gives swift approval of the drastic move to achieve President Truman's goal of putting 3,500,000 men under arms "as soon as possible."

Congress also will be asked to tighten up draft deferments and exemptions for the 19 through 25-year-old group. The Legislative request will ask that their service be lengthened from the present 21 months.

Felix Larkin, Defense Department general counsel said the universal military service bill would allow young men to be sent overseas after they complete basic training. Now this is 14 weeks for the Army and less for the other services.

Another defense spokesman said, meantime, that it will be necessary to extend the physician-dentist draft beyond the present July 9 expiration date.

By then, he said, all 8,000 able-bodied dentists and physicians who were educated at Government expense but never served in World War II will have been called. Some of those men who had military service also will have been inducted by then, the official added.

Larkin doubted that even the brightest students among the 18-year-olds will win deferment to complete their college training. The Pentagon plan calls for induction of all 18-year-old males who have finished high school. Seventeen-year-olds could start training with parental consent.

At present, youths must register when they are 18 but are not inducted until they reach 19. College students are allowed to finish their school year if their grades are satisfactory.

Friendship—Four Thousand Miles Apart

Never quite got the hang of how to play chess myself, but I'll say this for the game—it started one of the strongest friendships I know of: between Dad Wilson in our town and a fellow in Sudbury, England.

The two of them have never met or seen each other—but for eight or nine years they've been playing chess by mail together. Dad puzzles over the Englishman's latest letter, takes a couple of days to think it over, and then airmails a chart of his next move.

Dad always thinks best with a mellow glass of beer beside his chessboard. And the fellow in England writes that he does the same. "Almost as if we were in the same room," says Dad contentedly.

From where I sit, you can talk about diplomacy and foreign policy, but it's often little friendly things—like a game of chess or a glass of beer—that can make for tolerance and understanding . . . between people of different nations, between folks here at home!

Amazing is the word for it!

In the grave emergency that now confronts our country, the oil industry faces its great job with confidence . . . because, in the past 50 years, oil has enabled Americans to produce more, to have more, and to live better than any other people on the earth.

Since the discovery of oil in great quantities at Spindletop, oil has supported a progressive economic development that has brought about more profound changes in man's way of living than occurred in any other period of history.

For oil, available in steadily increasing quantities as a fuel, made possible the development of machinery and it is this combination of machines and energy which has changed the world in the short space of half a century.

With oil came automobiles . . . mass production . . . airplanes . . . mechanized farming . . . diesel electric trains . . . ships that cross an ocean in four days.

The oil industry kept pace with this amazing progress—supplied its energy, lubricated its wheels and gears, developed new and better products for new and better American machines. Foresighted, the industry planned yesterday for today's great need for oil; today, it plans for tomorrow's.

At the beginning of another year, the oil industry faces its biggest job in all the fifty years since Spindletop. It must produce more oil in 1951 than has ever been produced before. For the defense of our country and for our economic welfare—both now and in the future—the oil industry must continue to find new oil, to develop producing oil fields, to build refining and transportation facilities.

It approaches this job with a full realization of the size and number of the problems involved, but also with a confidence born of its demonstrated ability to keep ahead of the times.

"What a man hears he may doubt,
what he sees he may possibly doubt;
but what a man does himself he cannot doubt."
DR. S. A. KNAPP
B.C.

When Dr. Seaman A. Knapp came to Texas in 1903 to conduct the first successful farm demonstration on the Walter C. Porter farm on Poetry Road near Terrell, he fathered the nationwide system of agricultural extension work which today has county agricultural agents and home demonstration agents throughout the nation and has done much for the development of our agriculture. In Texas today there are such agents working in 252 of our 254 counties. That first demonstration of methods to combat the boll weevil, which was threatening to wipe out Texas cotton, was successful. (The merchants of Terrell had put up a $1,000 bond to protect the landowner in case it failed.) The federal government took over the work in 1904 and started the expansion which has developed into one of the most successful adult education programs in the world. A strong believer in the value of demonstration, Dr. Knapp always reminded his followers: "What a man hears he may doubt, what he sees he may possibly doubt; but what a man does himself he cannot doubt."

15 Men To Leave For Induction Feb. 12

A call for 15 men from Milam County for induction into the armed forces has been issued, it was announced by August G. Kunz, chairman of the Milam County Draft Board, Friday, January 5.

This is the sixth call for men from this county for induction since the outbreak of the Korean Conflict and during these six calls a total of 63 men have been inducted from Milam County.

These men will leave for the Dallas Recruiting Station on February 12 where they will report for processing and further assignments. The Army at the present is taking most of the men that are inducted as there is an acute shortage of manpower in the Army more than any other branch of the service.

The calls for the month of March are due to be heavier as the situation in Korea becomes more serious each day and with the heavy loss of men in the fighting areas. More men will have to be called up for service.

Two calls for pre-induction physicals have already been issued for the month of January and 22 men are to leave on the 17th of this minth and 22 are scheduled to leave on the 22nd also. Fourteen left for physicals on December 29.

The 'New Taste' in beer!

PALE DRY IS THE REASON WHY

We think you'll discover something new in beers when you try the fine, bright flavor of Pale Dry GRAND PRIZE. It's the "new taste" in beer and Texans everywhere have been enjoying Pale Dry since we first introduced it one year ago.

What does 'Pale Dry' mean?

Pale Dry is the name for a new and specific kind of beer —pale gold in color, and sharply dry in flavor, as opposed to old-style, sweeter, darker beers heavy with malt and fattening solids.

How is it brewed?

The GRAND PRIZE master brewer uses only the very best hops, the finest malt, top-grade Texas rice, the purest strains of yeast culture and pure deep-rock artesian water in brewing GRAND PRIZE. It takes such quality ingredients to produce a pale dry beer. Every barrel of Pale Dry GRAND PRIZE is given abundant time to age.

We believe...

that if you once try Pale Dry GRAND PRIZE you will join the ranks of the hundreds of thousands of Texans who prefer it to any other beer!

'51 Plymouth To Be Shown Saturday

Spectacular engineering advancements which produce driving and riding ease heretofore unknown in automobiles of any price class, feature the new line of Plymouth cars. Combining smart new body lines with matchless interior luxury, the 1951 Plymouth will go on display here and throughout the United States Saturday, Schiller Motor Co., Green Motor Co., and Duncum Motor Co., announced today.

Designers have given the Plymouth a striking new silhuette, and interior refinements are innovations in the lowest price field. The styling improvements retain the traditional roominess of the cars.

The new Plymouths may be seen here at Schiller Motor Co., Corner Hiway 36 and 77, Green Motor Co., Corner Howell and Highway 77, and Duncum Motor Co. ,West 1st St.

Easier to drive and more comfortable, the new cars have greater beauty, more safety features and broader ranges of vision than ever before.

Engineers say the new "Safety-Flow ride" takes the bounce and wallop out of bumps. A new application of hydraulic flow control in the shock absorbers provides a more gradual change of resistance during spring deflections and thus a softer ride when driving on average roads. It also exerts extra resstance on rough roads to a degree where driver and passengrs are almost compltely freed of the discomfort of bing joltd around.

"The new Plymouth gives you roadability never before offered in any car," Mr. D. S. Eddins, the President of Plymouth Motor Corporation said.

"There is now no necessity for steering-wheel fatigue to control the car on difficult roads. The driver is no longer required to focus full attention on the condition of the road. He may be more watchful on oncoming traffic, pedestrians, curves, crossroads and other potential hazards."

The lines of the new Plymouth have ben beautified. An appearance of massiveness combined with smart streamlining is induced by a new grille, beautifully redesigned front fenders and hood, a wider windshield and a larger rear window. Narrower windshield pillars together with the wider windshield provides additional lateral vision. To utilize fully the greater vision through the new rear window, the rear view mirror is two inches wider. The chair-height front seat and the new design of hood and front fenders permit the driver to see the road nearer the car.

There are numerous mechanical improvements. Windshield wipers are electrically operated, and are of the single speed, self-parking type.

All Plymouth engines now have a built-in by-pass cooling system permitting water circulation and resulting in more uniform temperature throughout the engine during the warm up period. The new system consists of a passage in the cylinder head and block providing direct access to the water pump, and a choke-type thermostat to regulate coolant flow to the radiator.

In the convertible club coupe, the spare tire is mounted vertically as in other coupe and sedan models, rather than on the trunk floor.

The new Plymouth interiors offer the finest selection of upholstery and trim and the most harmonious color schemes in the company's history. The colors which have been chosen provide throughout the interior a pleasing combination of shades in harmony with the cars exterior color. Designers say the interior is an unparalleled achievement in combining practicality with luxury. Always noted for spaciousness, Plymouth now has even more head room and more room to stretch out in comfort in the rear seat.

The wide, deep chair-height seats, the ease of entrance and exit, and all the other traditional Plymouth features for driver and passenger comfort have been retained.

There are nine body-types in the new Plymouth line: the Concord series includes a two-door sedan and three-passenger coupe as well as the two all-metal utility models, the Suburban and the Savoy; the Cambridge series has a four-door sedan and a club coupe; and the Cranbrook series includes a four-door sedan, a club coupe, and a convertible club coupe.

Among the "high-priced car" features which are retained are six-cylinder, 97-horsepower engine with a 7 to 1 compression ration, the combination ignition and starter switch, automatic electric choke, super-cushion tires, safe-guard hydraulic brakes and safety-rim wheels.

Mr. and Mrs. Phil Russell of Dallas, Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Hefley of San Antonio and Mr. and Mrs. George Hefley of Corpus Christi were recent visitors in the home of Judge and Mrs. Dan Tyson.

UN Line Threatened By Red Advance

TOKYO, Thursday, Jan. 4—Allied troops were abandoning flaming Seoul Thursday ahead of assault waves of Red Chinese troops which swept to the outskirts of the old Korean capital.

A dispatch said the 8th Army gave the order to quit the city Wednesday morning.

Long columns of trucks and other vehicles, crammed with troops, moved south out of Seoul. Some United Nations troops still were in position north of Seoul facing the Red tide.

A grave flanking threat arose simultaneously 50 miles east of Seoul. North Korean forces were striking swiftly southward toward allied lines of retreat in central Korea.

Hard-riding enemy cavalry was reported with this flanking force. Whether they were the fierce Mongolian cavalrymen or simply North Koreans was not indicated.

The question of the hour was: Would the powerful Chinese and North Korean offensive sweep the United Nations army entirely out of Korea?

The storm of battle was expected to break over the ancient Korean capital of Seoul at any hour. The city was paralyzed. It waited for the conqueror to come for the second time in six months.

The stricken city's fall depends upon how soon the Chinese can reassemble for a savage smash at this holding line. The enemy suffered bloody losses in a tornado of fire from Allied guns and warplanes. Allied casualties also were heavy.

The Korean police rounded up the few able-bodied citizens still left in Seoul and set them to digging entrenchments on the south bank of the Han River. The Han flows through Seoul.

The President's Plan Told In Brief

Here is President Truman's 10-point legislative program:

1—Appropriations for the armed forces build-up.

2—Extension and revision of the draft law, presumably to induct 18-year-olds and extend the draft term from 21 to 27 or 30 months,

3—Military and econmic aid to the rest of the free world.

4—Revision and extension of his authority to expand production and control wages, prices and rent.

5— Improvement of the agricultural laws to help ‥obtain the kinds of farm products we need for the defense effort." This might include a direct subsidy to farmers to keep from setting farm price ceilings at less than parity.

6— Improvement of labor laws to '·help provide stable labor-management relations" and assure ·'steady" production.

7—Housing and training of defense workers and "the full use of all our man power resources."

8. Legislation to increase the supply of doctors, nurses, and other medical personnel.

Senator Kyle Vick Suffers Heart Attack Sunday Night At Waco

Veteran State Senator Kyle Vick of Waco was in a hospital there Monday suffering from a heart attack.

It was first reported that his condition was serious, but late word from the Senator's hospital bed said that he was improved, but will be hospitalized for several weeks and would likely be confined to his home for some time after that.

Senator Vick, one of the large field of Lieutenant Governor candidates in the 1950 race missed the opening day of the Senate Tuesday.

He served as Senate president pro tem during the last session. He was taken to the hospital Sunday night.

Mrs. F. W. Mortimer has returned from a pleasant visit with her husband who is stationed at Camp Pendelton near Oceanside, California. Mrs. Mortimer said the scenery was very beautiful and there was plenty snow.

The Official Family To Discuss Bonds

The City Council will meet tonight in a continued meeting from last week to make necessary preparations for the calling of the bond election to vote bonds to purchase the right-of-way on Highways 36 and 190, Alderman L. Van Perkins announced.

The Official Family is now using every possible effort to accelerate plans for the coming election that will be held sometime in the near future and securing the right-of-way is still the main concern of citizens here.

Civic Leaders, businessmen and other citizens interested in the welfare of the city are always invited to attend these sessions and no doubt a large number will be on hand tonight to witness what undertakings might occur at the City Hall.

The outlook of securing this important right-of-way still looks dim, since delay after delay has occured and if the right amount of cooperation had been utilized by our city leaders, the right-of-way might now be under construction. The failure to issue warrants at such a low rate of interest that was offered the city has been a grave mistake and if bonds are voted, the same low rate of interest may not be extended by the Bond Companies.

Heavy Toll Taken By U. N. Air Force

TOKYO, Tuesday, Jan. 9—The retreating 8th Army abandoned two important towns on east and west sides of the front in South Korea while Allied warplanes took a heavy toll of the invading Chinese and Korean Communists.

In the west, Osan, almost 60 miles south of the 38th parallel and 28 miles below Seoul, was given up without a fight. It is in the old "Heartbreak Highway" down which Americans and South Koreans first retreated before the North Korean invaders in July.

In the east, United Nations troops quit the burning road and rail hub of Wonju after a valiant delaying action that brought time for preparation of defenst farther south.

More than 1,750 Reds were estimated killed, wounded or captured in ground actions and air strikes during Monday.

Pilots reported the roads south and southeast of Seoul and north of Wonju were jammed with Reds pursuing the 8th Army southward.

While B-29 Superforts concentrated on the Seoul area, smashing the runways of Kimpo Airfield with bombs, jets and pistonengined fighters and light bombers swooped on troop concentrations near the Han River.

One 20 mile stretch of road was transformed into a death trap for the Reds.

Allied warships on both west and east coasts also fought to delay the Red hordes. The American cruiser Rochester and the British cruisers Kenya and Ceylon bombarded Inchon, Seoul's port, for the fourth straight day.

On the east coast four American destroyers and two Siamese corvettes shelled road and rail links for a distance of 60 miles north of the 38th parallel.

Mr. and Mrs V. A. Kubecka had their children home for the holidays who were, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Kubecka and daughters, Kay and Martha Ann of Austin and Mr. and Mrs LeRoy Kubecka and daughter, Mary Ann of St. Louis.

Specialist To Aid Farm and Rural Areas

HOMER M. GIBBS

Homer M. Gibbs, rural development specialist, has been employed by Texas Power & Light Company to assist its farm and rural customers and to work with existing agricultural agencies and other interested groups in improving farm practices.

"It has always been the policy of this Company to help develop the area it serves," said W. W. Lynch, president, "because the property of Texas depends basically upon the prosperity of agriculture. Through the work of Mr. Gibbs and his staff, we hope to contribute to the long-range development of better farming practices which will assure Texas farmers of larger incomes and will conserve for Texas the agricultural resources of the State."

Mr. Gibbs has served as vocational teacher in Galveston County,, and as assistant and then county agricultural agent of Fort Bend County;' In these positions he worked actively with both Future Farmer and 4-H Club groups.

During the war, he spent two years in the U. S. Navy, and after his discharge returned for a year as Fort Bend County Agent. Korean President Pleads For Weapons

TOKYO, Jan. 8. (Monday) Tenacious united Nations troops Monday clung to Wonju in Central South Korea where Communists have stabbed sixty miles below the thirty-eighth parallel.

Latest advices from the Korean war's only active battle zone were that Allied forces still held the road and rail center fifty-five miles southeast of fallen Seoul.

The situation in the Wonju area had not changed since Sunday night. Chinese and Korean Reds thrust into the town's outskirts Sunday morning but were driven back by the U. N. defenders shortly after noon.

The fighting flowed around Wonju, however, and its fall appeared only a matter of time.

The weather limited Allied air support here and elsewhere in Korea. Far East Air Force planes flew less than 350 sorties Sunday, claiming 300 Red Troop casualties. Broken clouds and overcast prevailed Monday morning.

Vanguards of seven Chinese armies —210,000 men, or more—surged down the spiny Korean interior valleys and roads leading south in a powerful effort to cut off the retiring Eighth Army from its eventual goal in Southeast Korea.

While the Allies scored their first successful delaying action in a week at Wonju, the Red tide rolled ominously southward elsewhere across the embattled peninsula.

There was no indication that Lt. Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway's Eighth Army yet was ready to stand and fight at all points.

President Syngman Rhee, whose refugee government was again in southeast Korea, pleaded in an interview at Pusan for 500,000 rifles to arm Korean youth.

"This is now a fight for our very lives," he said, his voice shaking with emotion." Our people now know that if the Chinese catch them they will be killed.

"If the Chinese come in waves we want to kill them in waves."

As the Eighth Army's retretating columns rolled down vehicle jammed roads, General Ridgway ordered a tougher policy toward refugees. Korean Communist agents were found Sunday in their midst.

Also, the retreat in the west had been slowed to a snail's pace for two days by the great throngs of refugees clogging the roads.

State Of Texas Will Need More Cash

AUSTIN, Texas,—Texas legislators and Gov. Allan Shivers got the bad word officially about new taxes Saturday—three days before the Legislature begins its long, every-other-year session.

Comptroller Robert S. Calvert made the official prediction that 110 million dollars in new money must be found if the state keeps on spending at the present rate. His forecast is binding on the Legislature.

It set the stage for one of the big problems legislators must tackle in a session estimated to last anywhere from four to ten months.

Governor Shivers hesitated to say flatly he thought more taxes were inevitable. But he said he would have some recommendations to the Legislature on feasible means of meeting the money problems.

Calvert gave the Governor a financial report that had one bit of brightness in it. Instead of running into a 26-million-dollar overdraft in the state's main checking account next August 31, as forecast a year ago, he said the outlook for the general fund now is for a 5-million dollar plus cash balance.

That means about 32 million dollars less the legislators will have to worry about raising.

Calvert reported to the Governor that prospective 1951-52 income to the general fund— the one which counts when it comes to figuring up how much new money must be gotten to finance state operations— will be $19,363,873 and in the 1952-43 year, $17,403,124.

But currently about 56 million dollars a year is being checked out of the account. In addition to that, 21 million dollars for operating the state hospitals and special schools, normally a demand on the fund, is being paid this year out of a special tax. Another 2 million dollars will be needed to meet demands of the school foundation fund.

Offsetting that will be a pickup of about 3 million dollars a year excess income from the added penny-a-pack cigarette tax over the 5 million dollars set aside for state hospital buildings, plus the balance next August and the estimated income.

It adds up to 51 million dollars the first year and 59 million dollars the second year to keep on spending at the present level.

If spending increases, then just that much more will be added to the tax bill.

Review of Milam H. D. Work In '50 Is Made

By MRS. ALFORD
County HD Agent

In the beginning of 1950, very thorough and complete plans were made for H. D. and 4-H club work in Milam County by Mrs. Isabelle Moody, who was H. D. Agent at that time, and the various club committies. Mrs. Moody resigned at the end of December, 1949. The County was without a H. D. Agent unaill June 10, 1950, when Mrs. Bertie H. Alford assumed the duties of H. D. Agent in the County.

Under the wonderful leadership, interest and cooperation of the rural women who had worked so closely with the Extension Service, the plans that were made were followed as well as the leaders could possibly do without a H. D. Agent.

The girls 4-H clubs were working on clothing projects and gardens. Under the able leadership of the 4-H club sponsors, and club women, with the assistance of the County Agent J. D. Moore, and office secretary, Mrs. Helen Mortimer, the 4-H girls had a very nice dress revue on April 29 in the District Courtroom in Cameron with 5 out of 7 clubs entering. Forty-seven guests attended the Revue.

Three 4-H girls attended the 4-H Dist. Camp at Buchanan Dam in June. The Home Agent and a 4-H sponsor, Mrs. Iva Lee Graham, accompanied the group for the 3-day camp.

In July the 4-H and H. D. Club members held County Encampments at Coffields Ranch in the Friendship Community for four days--two for each of the two groups.

Other recreation programs the groups have planed and participated in during the year have been community parties and activities, entertainments for the club members and families, and Thanksgiving and Christmas parties. The H. D. Council gave a banquet in May in observance of National Home Demonstration Week. Mrs. Eloise Triggs Johnson, whose mother was the first H. D. Agent for Milam County and the Commissioner's Court members and wives were special guests at the banquet. The Council held a county Christmas party at Minerva in December with 92 ladies present.

The H. D. Club women worked on gardens and bedrooms as their major demonstrations this year as is the plan for 1951. Several ladies began building and rejuvenating bedrooms. Some of the accomplishments made were rooms added, closets built, floors finished windows added, dressing centers built, new bedding and covers added, new curtains, bed spreads, and rugs made and walls papered.

Emphasis in the gardening demonstrations was on more green and yellow vegetables for use in the family diet.

Other types by the groups included work simplification in all phases, fall and winter flower arrangement, and hooked rug making.

In October, the H. D. Club sponsored the making of 12 United Nations flags and promoted United Nations Programs all over the County on U. N. Day, October 24.

Interest is high and plans made for a good year's work in 1951. With world conditions as they are, variations may have to be made.

Scout Meeting Held At Cameron Country Club Wednesday Night

A meeting of the District Committee of the Milam District of the Boy Scouts of America was held in Cameron on Wednesday night January 3rd at the Cameron Country Club. Representatives from Rockdale, Sharp and Cameron were present.

The Committee developed plans for Boy Scout activities for the coming year and particular emphasis was made on plans for Boy Scout week February 6th through February 12th.

This meeting was followed by a Round Table discussion led by W. T. Hanes, District Commissioner. A film depicting a model scout meeting was shown and the proper method of planning a scout meeting was demonstrated by Harry Hawn and Harvey Price, scout field executives.

Present at the two meetings were Dr. J. T. Richards, Clyde Franklin, H. D. Maxwell, W. T. Scurlock and W. P. Hogan all of Rockdale. Mr. Vale of Sharp and L. W. Smith, C. B. Jenness, Albert Mitchan, Dr. George Bowman, W. T. Hanes and Richard Bush all of Cameron. Harry Hawn of Temple and Harvey Price of Waco.

Friends of R. L. Batte Sr., will regret to learn that he is a patient in St. Edwards Hospital and is unable to receive his friends at this time. The family appreciates the interest shown by friends over the county, concerning his condition.

Governor Sanctions Dime Campaign

Governor Allan Shivers emphasized the impact of polio on the family, community, state and nation in officially designating the period from January 15 through January 31 for the 1951 Texas March of Dimes.

The Chief Executive cited the exhaustion of National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis funds by the record 100,000 cases the last 3 years. He stressed the state polio fund deficit in caring for almost 2,800 new cases in 1950 alone.

"For three consecutive years," said Governor Shiver's proclamation, "Texas children and adults have been heavily attacked by the virus of poliomyelitis.

"The record shows that 423 more polio patients were reported in Texas during 1950 than in 1949, with 2,778 cases in 1950.

"Every penny raised in Texas during the past three March of Dimes campaigns has been spent for patient care of Texas polio patients and supplemented with $377,000 sent into Texas from other states by the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis.

"Not only was the last year the second worst polio year in the nation's history, but the cost of providing treatment for these patients continues upward along with the tremendous costs of caring for patients of previous years. Funds of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis must be replenished by the 1951 March of Dimes.

"Therefore, as Governor of Texas, I hereby designate the period January 15 to 31 for the 1951 March of Dimes in Texas, and urge every citizen to contribute as he is able to the success of this worthy campaign."

Meter Collection For the Week Totals $215.47

The parking meter fund continues to increase with another good return this week taken from the boxes.

A total of $215.47 was taken Thursday it was reported by Bill Richter, assistant officer in charge of collection. This amount was for five days since last Monday was a holiday, and this report was a little off from the returns received the previous week.

Businessmen generally are still praising the meter system and farmers can now find a place to park in the mercantile area when they come to town.

A number of meters in the city have been reported to be out of order and repairmen have been busy the last few days adjusting the units. The Company which installed the meters allows the city a service expense charge of 25 cents per meter each month and this amounts to approximately $50 a month. This fund is used to pay the service repairman.

In a recent issue of this paper appeared the amount of $50 a week allowed by the company, this is corrected in the above paragraph.

Chester R. Hobson Buried At Marlow

Chester Richard Hobson, 41, was killed in a plane crash near Bryan, around 4 P. M. Thursday, January 11.

Mr. Hobson, a well known bricklayer in this section of Milam County, was born and reared in the Marlow Community. He was a member of a prominent family of that community who were early settlers. He was the grandson of the late Col. John S. Hobson, a Confederate soldier.

Mr. Hobson had been working with Contractor C. L. Andrews of Bryan, recently completing the College Methodist Church at College Station. He was also working with Sam Tindall and Wesley Pratt, local bricklayers and had been employed in College Station and Bryan for the past several months. Mrs. Baskin had been ill for several months prior to her death. She was a member of a widely known and prominent family of Camron and was always interested in the progress and welfare of her community. She was a member of the Methodist Church and devoted much of her time to the work in her church until recent months. She was well loved by those who knew her best and was often seen working in her garden about her home as this was her favorite pastime.

Mrs. Baskin was a native of Alabama, born January 23, 1874 at Camden in Wilcox County. She came to Texas with her parents as a young child where they settled in Milam County and has been a resident of Cameron for almost three quarters of a century. Similar attention has been given the Company's transmission system which has been substantially strengthened, particularly in areas subject to recurring ice storms, so as to withstand extreme weather conditions and heavy ice loadings. The voltage of distribution systems in towns and cities served by the Company have been increased under methods which permit serving a greater power demand with the same wires, thus reducing the amount of new copper or aluminum wiring used.

Continued rising costs of materials for repairs, maintenance and construction have been a serious consideration in the TP&L Company's operations for several years, Mr. Lynch pointed out, and it has been necessary to effect every possible economy that could

Review of Milam H. D. Work In '50 Is Made

By MRS. ALFORD
County HD Agent

In the beginning of 1950, very thorough and complete plans were made for H. D. and 4-H club work in Milam County by Mrs. Isabelle Moody, who was H. D. Agent at that time, and the various club committies. Mrs. Moody resigned at the end of December, 1949. The County was without a H. D. Agent unaill June 10, 1950, when Mrs. Bertie H. Alford assumed the duties of H. D. Agent in the County.

Under the wonderful leadership, interest and cooperation of the rural women who had worked so closely with the Extension Service, the plans that were made were followed as well as the leaders could possibly do without a H. D. Agent.

The girls 4-H clubs were working on clothing projects and gardens. Under the able leadership of the 4-H club sponsors, and club women, with the assistance of the County Agent J. D. Moore, and office secretary, Mrs. Helen Mortimer, the 4-H girls had a very nice dress revue on April 29 in the District Courtroom in Cameron with 5 out of 7 clubs entering. Forty-seven guests attended the Revue.

Three 4-H girls attended the 4-H Dist. Camp at Buchanan Dam in June. The Home Agent and a 4-H sponsor, Mrs. Iva Lee Graham, accompanied the group for the 3-day camp.

In July the 4-H and H. D. Club members held County Encampments at Coffields Ranch in the Friendship Community for four days--two for each of the two groups.

Other recreation programs the groups have planed and participated in during the year have been community parties and activities, entertainments for the club members and families, and Thanksgiving and Christmas parties. The H. D. Council gave a banquet in May in observance of National Home Demonstration Week. Mrs. Eloise Triggs Johnson, whose mother was the first H. D. Agent for Milam County and the Commissioner's Court members and wives were special guests at the banquet. The Council held a county Christmas party at Minerva in December with 92 ladies present.

The H. D. Club women worked on gardens and bedrooms as their major demonstrations this year as is the plan for 1951. Several ladies began building and rejuvenating bedrooms. Some of the accomplishments made were rooms added, closets built, floors finished windows added, dressing centers built, new bedding and covers added, new curtains, bed spreads, and rugs made and walls papered.

Emphasis in the gardening demonstrations was on more green and yellow vegetables for use in the family diet.

Other types by the groups included work simplification in all phases, fall and winter flower arrangement, and hooked rug making.

In October, the H. D. Club sponsored the making of 12 United Nations flags and promoted United Nations Programs all over the County on U. N. Day, October 24.

Interest is high and plans made for a good year's work in 1951. With world conditions as they are, variations may have to be made.

This meeting was followed by a Round Table discussion led by W. T. Hanes, District Commissioner. A film depicting a model scout meeting was shown and the proper method of planning a scout meeting was demonstrated by Harry Hawn and Harvey Price, scout field executives.

Present at the two meetings were Dr. J. T. Richards, Clyde Franklin, H. D. Maxwell, W. T. Scurlock and W. P. Hogan all of Rockdale. Mr. Vale of Sharp and L. W. Smith, C. B. Jenness, Albert Mitchan, Dr. George Bowman, W. T. Hanes and Richard Bush all of Cameron. Harry Hawn of Temple and Harvey Price of Waco.

Friends of R. L. Batte Sr., will regret to learn that he is a patient in St. Edwards Hospital and is unable to receive his friends at this time. The family appreciates the interest shown by friends over the county, concerning his condition.

Governor Sanctions Dime Campaign

Governor Allan Shivers emphasized the impact of polio on the family, community, state and nation in officially designating the period from January 15 through January 31 for the 1951 Texas March of Dimes.

The Chief Executive cited the exhaustion of National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis funds by the record 100,000 cases the last 3 years. He stressed the state polio fund deficit in caring for almost 2,800 new cases in 1950 alone.

"For three consecutive years," said Governor Shiver's proclamation, "Texas children and adults have been heavily attacked by the virus of poliomyelitis.

"The record shows that 423 more polio patients were reported in Texas during 1950 than in 1949, with 2,778 cases in 1950.

"Every penny raised in Texas during the past three March of Dimes campaigns has been spent for patient care of Texas polio patients and supplemented with $377,000 sent into Texas from other states by the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis.

"Not only was the last year the second worst polio year in the nation's history, but the cost of providing treatment for these patients continues upward along with the tremendous costs of caring for patients of previous years. Funds of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis must be replenished by the 1951 March of Dimes.

"Therefore, as Governor of Texas, I hereby designate the period January 15 to 31 for the 1951 March of Dimes in Texas, and urge every citizen to contribute as he is able to the success of this worthy campaign."

The parking meter fund continues to increase with another good return this week taken from the boxes.

A total of $215.47 was taken Thursday it was reported by Bill Richter, assistant officer in charge of collection. This amount was for five days since last Monday was a holiday, and this report was a little off from the returns received the previous week.

Businessmen generally are still praising the meter system and farmers can now find a place to park in the mercantile area when they come to town.

A number of meters in the city have been reported to be out of order and repairmen have been busy the last few days adjusting the units. The Company which installed the meters allows the city a service expense charge of 25 cents per meter each month and this amounts to approximately $50 a month. This fund is used to pay the service repairman.

In a recent issue of this paper appeared the amount of $50 a week allowed by the company, this is corrected in the above paragraph.

What Makes Meat Price Is Up to You

STILLWATER, Okla.—That steak you had for dinner last night possibly caused a fluctuation in the cattle market.

Along with changes in supply brought about by different seasons of the year, consumer demand is one of the important causes of price variation in the livestock markets over the nation, according to Leo Blakely, Oklahoma A. & M. College agricultural economist.

The supply of meat on hand is not large, relative to the demand, said Blakley, and the price of livestock is felt by the consumer through his retail meat market. Practically all meat handled by packers is sold within 12 to 14 days after the animal is slaughtered.

Meat retailers watch the market and try to buy at lower prices. This enables them to pass the saving on to the consumer. This buying while the price is down has the effect of increasing demand, however, and causes the price of livestock to rise.

When the price goes up, consumer demand drops. This causes an increase in the supply of processed meat products and the price goes down. Again consumer demand rises. The market follows this circle continually.

Red, White, Blue Can Mean Little Cause for Cheer

You may well sing "Three Cheers for the Red, White and Blue" when it's Old Glory that you're referring to. But when the red, white and blue are the color changes taking place in your arms or legs, there's no room for three cheers. You'd do better to march one, two, three to your doctor.

The arm from the shoulder down and the leg from the hip bone to the end of the big toenail are called extremities in medical parlance, upper and lower extremities as the case may be. They are examined separately in a physical check-up for any signs of deformities, diseases of the joints, and circulatary or nourishment disorders.

Important Symptoms

Redness, paleness and blueness of the extremities are associated with circulatory disorders, congestion or blockage of the various vessels that feed those parts of the body.

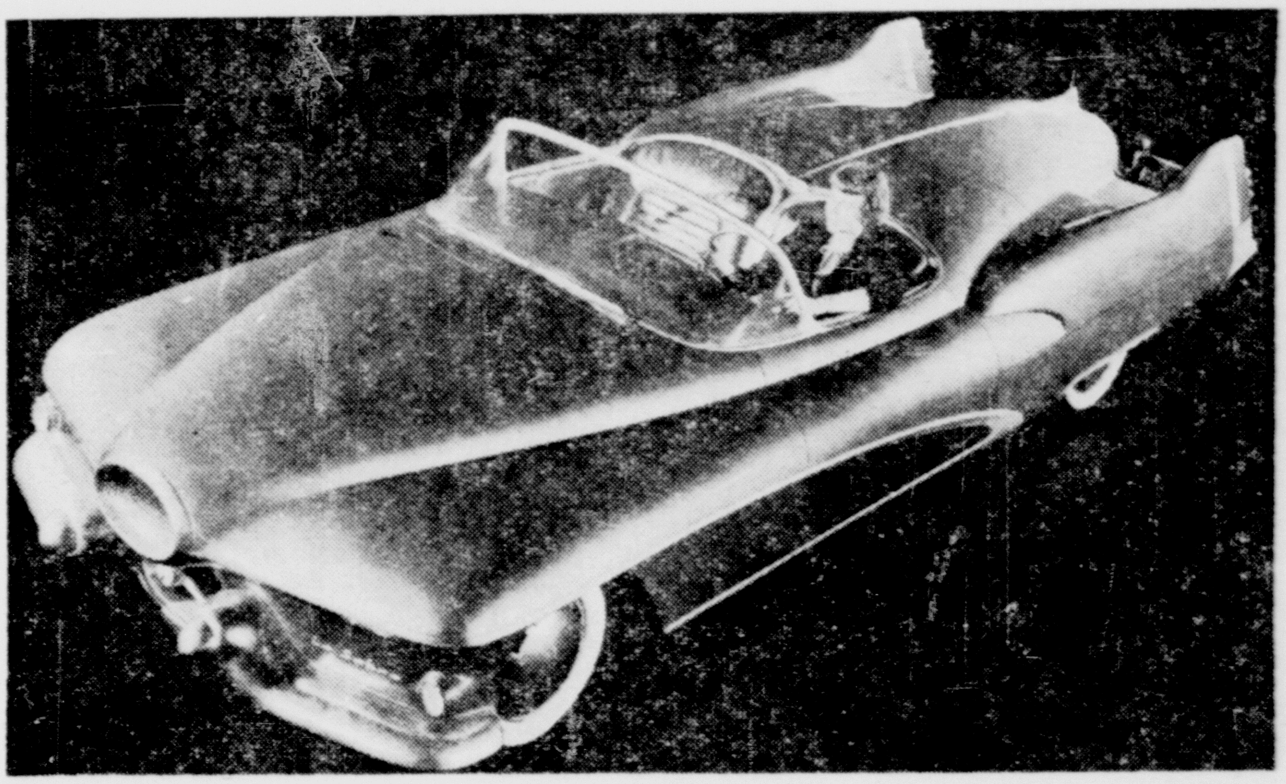
Sometimes these changes in color are combined with feelings of heat, cold, pain or no feeling at all, a deadness of the affected area, and sometimes those feelings may be present without the change in color.

These are all important symptoms. They may result from lung disease, heart disease, or just be localized difficulty at that particular area. Sometimes they stem from disorders of the nervous system.

So the mere report of such sensations or discolorations may mean a detailed check of other parts of the body, which fits into the general picture of the physical examination.—Prepared by State Medical Assn. of Texas.

Here's a Revival

Every now and then comes the urge for old-time desserts. Remember this old chestnut? Rice cooked in milk, over hot water of course, sweetened and served hot with slices of lovely golden canned cling peaches. A sprinkle of cinnamon over all is a delightful touch.



AUTO OF THE FUTURE?—You're seeing here for the first time General Motors new full-scale model of 'Le Sabre', a custom-built sports car that will be a laboratory on wheels for testing advanced design and mechanical features. With the sweeping lines of jet aircraft, the experimental car is only three feet high, has a clearance of six inches and a wheel base of 115. Car of the future? GM doesn't know for sure, but it's best bet so far.

New Plastic Pipe Made in Oklahoma

SAND SPRINGS, OKLA. — A new industry has come to the Southwest with the start of production here by a factory making four-inch plastic oil well pipe, a type that may revolutionize the casing phase of the petroleum industry.

The plant is operated by Perrault Bros. company of Tulsa, and it will turn out 20-foot sections of pipe to be used for well casing and line laying.

The new product is made of resin and glass fiber and, its manufacturers says, will last for 50 years whereas iron pipe has a normal usage from 16 to 20 years.

A 20-foot section of four-inch weighs only 37½ pounds and a worker can carry one under each arm. A jeep can carry as much of the new pipe as the largest truck can carry when loaded with iron pipe.

Chest is Target For Skin Rashes

The skin of the chest is subject to practically all the rashes that might crop out on the rest of the body, though a fungus growth known as tinea versicolor is among the commonest skin infection in the Southwest.

The color of the chest may be related to some general condition of the body whether it be the paleness of pallor, the redness of flushing, the blue tinge of cyanosis or the darkened skin of pigmentation. Darkened spots or white spots that have no sensation to touch may be an important part of the inspection of the chest.

Fever is Cause

Tough, dry, scaly skin on the chest may result from fever arising in other parts of the body, just as hard and thickened skin may be due to an underlying infection. Sweating that is confined to the skin of the chest is frequently associated with lung disease.

The muscles and the joints are part of the inspection of the chest with attention paid to any redness or swelling around such joints as where the breast bone and the collar bone meet. The glands under the arms are always checked for any soreness or swelling.

Dilated vessel in the chest and obstructed circulation may lead to discovery of tumors that would not otherwise be deteced.—Prepared by Texas State Medical Assn.

Don't 'Spike' Drinks For Barnyard Chicks

Barnyard fowls are 'finicky' drinkers, so don't fill their water containers with drugs supposed to prevent various diseases.

Such drugs are usually distasteful to the birds and will prevent them from drinking all of the water they should consume to keep them in a good healthy condition.

Drugs such as some of the sulfa drugs are sometimes supplied to good advantage to sick or disease exposed birds for a limited time. But to medicate the water continually is considered by most veterinarians as a bad practice.

Chemicals Become Big Export Item

A lustily growing industry on the Texas Gulf Coast today is producing cargo that may soon rank with cotton, oil and grain in exports from the Southwest. It's the chemical industry.

Since 1945 more than $350,000,000 have been invested in chemical plants in the Houston area alone, and activity is increasing.

More than 40 big plants now line the Texas coast, producing more than 100 chemicals used in making fertilizers, insecticides, plastics, explosives and other items.

"Woolies" Coming Into Money Again; Consumers to Pay

The New Mexico and West Texas wool growers may like this story but the consumers who like lamb chops and wear the clothing that comes from the sheep's back may not be too pleased.

Economic experts in Washington say that both wool and lamb prices, already at the highest level in history, will be going much higher, and before very long.

As they see it there's little chance, short of a depression, for a price decline during the next few years, and there's nothing to stop a general rise unless the government steps in with consumer subsidies.

The sheep population of the country has been decreasing because ranchers and farmers have been able, during the past few years, to make more money raising cattle. That has caused wool and mutton prices to move steadily upward to the present record level.

Now, it is believed, those high prices will cause a rebuilding of sheep herds, and it will take time for the herds to grow to a size that will cause a new price decline to set in.

Experts estimate that it will take about five years to build up the sheep population to the 1942 level.

Melons to Fish—Louisiana Farmers Make New Main Crop

Minnow Project Now Paying Off

SALINE, La.—William A. Driggers and his brother Albert are unique among the farmers in this section of Louisiana.

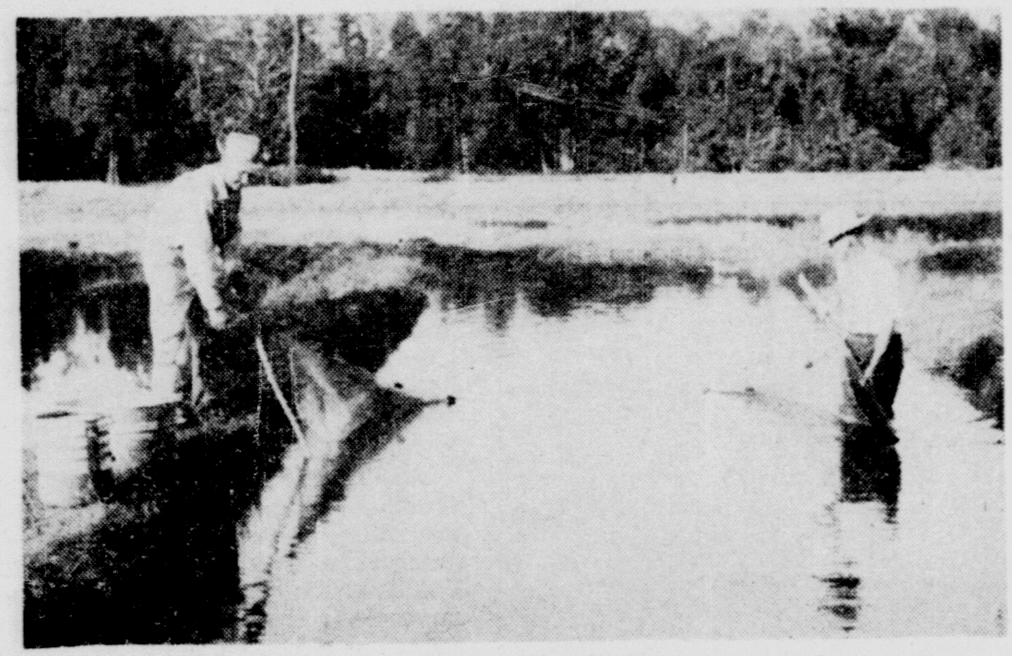
They have turned their 150-acre tract near here into a paying proposition—all with an initial investment of $5 worth of minnows and 23 gold fish bought in Shreveport for 15 cents each!

They're now selling minnows to sportsmen and gold fish to Shreveport stores by the thousands, and making a lot more money that they used to make from their main crop, watermelons.

It all started when Bill Driggers considered that he was doing all right under soil conservation methods, but that he was wasting a lot of water from the seven springs that feed a pond on his place.

The pond was providing fish for the family table, but no revenue. Bill's brother, Albert, also had an adjoining farm of 180 acres on which a lot of water was being wasted.

So the Driggers had a talk with Soil Conservation Service men and the profitable project of today soon emerged. They scooped out some small ponds with their own farming tools and stocked them with the minnows and gold fish.



HARVEST TIME . . . A buyer having arrived for minnows, William Driggers, right, and his brother Albert seine a pond on William's Lousiana farm. It's turning into fine cash crop for the Driggers—minnow raising.

Today Bill has 14 ponds covering about four acres, and Albert has seven, and the two brothers work as a team, helping each other.

This year they were selling fish-minnows by the hundreds of thousand to dealers from all over this part of the state who transport the fish from the farms in truck tanks. The Driggers also are selling thousands of gold fish to Shreveport pet stores at three cents each. They get a cent each for the minnows, and that runs into money since the dealers take several thousand at a time.

Use Fertilizer

The Driggers brothers treat their minnows like any other crop. They keep their ponds treated with 5-10-5 fertilizer at the rate of 400 pounds an acre in the growing season, from about April 1 to June 30.

The minnows are fed cotton seed meal and wheat shorts (made from the kernel and hull of wheat) in powder form. It takes ten pounds of this food for about 10,000 minnows a week. It costs around $3.75 a hundred pounds. The minnows are fed daily with the powered food thrown on the water.

Wasted Water Provides Cash

Headaches, Too

The minnow business is not without its headaches, the Driggers have learned. If they don't keep an eye on their business, herons and snakes will eat their minnows. If bull frogs aren't controlled, tadpoles eat the food.

Albert and William have learned too that minnows get seasick while being hauled from the farm to the bait dealers. It takes them two or three days to recover.

"We've found that we can reduce or overcome seasickness by feeding them lightly two or three days before the buyer is expected and not feeding them at all on the way they are to be moved," Bill said.

William intends to add six more ponds and two acres and Albert is figuring on a similar expansion.

The brothers also raise corn, timber, livestock and truck on their farms, besides a lot of watermelons; but the way they're going at things, minnows and gold fish are going to be their biggest crops.

King-Size Vegetable

Who could ask for a better contribution to a big meal than the overgrown vegetable pictured here?

What is it? Well, you may not believe it, but it's a banana squash, and it tips the scales at 112 pounds. It measures 53 inches long.

Grown on a ranch near Hemet, Calif., it's believed to be the largest squash ever produced.

The giant is being measured here by five-year-old Val Deane Sly, who figures she would be a pretty big girl before managing to eat that much squash.

More, Better Pig Theory Advanced

Most Southwestern swine producers realize the value of feeding well-balanced rations to gilts during the pregnancy and lactation periods, but many fail to provide the correct rations for their gilts before the breeding season.

The ration fed to gilts before they are bred greatly influnces the pig crop. As to the number and size of pigs farrowed, and their rate of growth during the first few weeks.

Probably the most practical ration for gilts is corn or some other grain, along with plenty of protein supplement and free access to a legume pasture, says E. M. Regenbrecht, extension swine specialist of Texas A. & M. College.

If a legume pasture is not available, Regenbrecht recommends providing legume hay in racks for the gilts. He suggests substituting ground oats for some of the corn, when this is practical. He also emphasizes the value of minerals.

The animal possessing the greatest attachment for man is woman.

Here's Good News On Bluestem Front

There's good news for farmers and cattlemen about King Ranch bluestem — that grass which has shown itself so sturdy that it can chase Johnson grass right out of a field.

The Texas Research Foundation has announced a first year seed yield of $200 an acre from land planted to the variety in experiments conducted by Dr. Howard B. Sprague, the foundation head.

"KR bluestem has now proved its value on three agricultureal fronts," said Dr. Sprague. "It helps rebuild depleted soil, it makes excellent pasturage, and its seed provides a good cash crop."

He said that the grass thrived during dry periods because of a deep and extensive root system capable of drawing moisture from soil levels not reached by other grasses.

STOCKPILE WOOL

The government has announced plans to purchase 100 million pounds of clean wool—this, for stockpiling as finished cloth against possible military emergency.

New Note in Wild, Blue Yonder

Southwest Leading World In Giving Farm New Wings

The Southwest is leading the world in putting tailor-made wings on its farms.

Down at Texas A. & M. College they are completing experiments on a new type, college-constructed airplane designed for farm and ranch work and it may revolutionize present day methods of aerial dusting and spraying.

This plane, built under supervision of Fred Weick, designer of Ercoupe, is a strictly agricultural product, the technical advisors on the job being the pilots who make a business of dusting, spraying, seeding and fertilizing crops from the air.

It's full of built-in features that these men believe will make their work easier . . . like dust hoppers in front of the pilot's compartment, and 150-gallon spray tanks, one in each wing.

It even has sharpened surfaces that can slice wire in event the plane should contact wire during the low flying that goes with the business of using a plane in agricultural work.

The ship, under construction for more than a year, has been built under an original $50,000 grant from the Civil Aeronautics Authority with cooperation from two other federal agencies, the Agriculture and Commerce Departments.

"But actual costs will run even higher," said Mr. Weick, "because many firms have contributed equipment, and the experimental job, only plane of its type ever made, was put together with college labor."

Need for the specialized farm plane, Mr. Weick points out, is stressed by the fact that last year more than 8,000 aircraft were used for agricultural purposes--3,000 for dusting, 2,000 for spraying, 2,000 for seeding, 1,500 for fertilizing, and 264 for insecticide application. But in the past pilots have used just any type plane.

The new model will make the pilot's work a lot quicker and easier, and assure a better job for the farmer who hires him, government officials believe.

Got a Sick Horse?

STILLWATER, OKLA.—Twenty-six intellectually tired but happy men will be graduated from the Oklahoma A. & M. College School of Veterinary Medicine next June, according to Dr. C. H. McEelroy, dean.

"They started in the first class in March of 1948," Dean McElroy said. "They've done a good job and we're proud of them."

To be graduated from the school normally requires six years of study.

SUGGESTIONS FROM A PRIZE WINNER!

Here's a wonderful suggestion from Mrs. J. A. Brown of Memphis, Tenn. . . . a suggestion for a soup with tantalizing appeal. Mrs. Brown boils a soup bone slowly, 2 or 3 hours, and strains the liquid through a thin cloth. Then she returns the liquid to the pot and adds one number 2 can of tomatoes, 1 onion, 1 potato (minced) and one can of GEBHARDT'S Chili . . . simmered for a short time. Mrs. Brown says that the chili not only gives the soup a more delicious flavor than anything she has ever tried, but provides an abundance of good lean beef. Add rice or spaghetti to thicken, if desired.

TAMALE CROQUETTES

It's tricks like this that take the monotony out of meals—and this one's easy: Knead one can of GEBHARDT'S tamales with parsley, chopped onions and salt. Shape and dip into beaten egg and then dip in cracker crumbs. Place in hot oven 'til done and garnish with fresh parsley and catsup. They're good—believe me! Count on GEBHARDT'S tamales for that! Every bite of these tamale croquettes is spicy rich with tender beef and that grand GEBHARDT flavor everyone loves.

GREEN SALAD DRESSING

GOES TWICE AS FAR

I mix my own salad dressings . . . and often add a new taste tang to our salads. My favorite is very simple to prepare. Just mix one portion of vinegar to two of salad oil, add one clove of garlic, chipped and rolled in salt, but less if necessary for taste. Then sprinkle in some GEBHARDT'S Chili Powder. You can always depend on GEBHARDT'S Chili Powder because it comes to you in air-tight containers . . . and retains its flavor. It is so finely ground and sieved that it is entirely free of any foreign particles. I chill the dressing until ready to serve.

Like Classics?—Well, That's New Film Trend

HOLLYWOOD. — The movies, which have exhausted just about every subject from paraplegia to the bubonic plague in their quest for different and experimental stories, seem to be embarked now on another screen cycle—filming the literary classics.

These tried-and-true story staples have recently become something of a novelty in moviedom, what with "offbeat" pictures about minorities, mob violence and similar problems.

Dore Schary, Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer production chief, whose studio is in forefront of the studios now filming classics, thinks that the "offbeat" pictures may have been overdone.

"In times like these," he says, "there is a growing disinterest on the part of the audience for stories of modern violence, and so we are looking to the classics.

M-G-M HAS already completed Rudyard Kipling's "Kim," a spy story set in India, with Errol Flynn. Schary says that this property was on the studio shelf for a long time and that he "reactivated" it.

Stewart Granger is slated to appear in movie versions of Kipling's "Soldiers Three," another action picture with an Indian background, which, with love interest added in a prologue, is set for a February starting date.

Sir Walter Scott's "Ivanhoe," which Schary acquired from Paramount when he was at RKO and then purchased from RKO when he came to Metro; and a remake of Rafael Sabatini's "Scaramouche," which was done as a silent picture with Ramon Navarro, also are in the making.

ALSO ON THE agenda is "Show Boat," which has been made twice before. This time it will have Kathryn Grayson, Howard Keel and Joe E. Brown in the cast when it goes before the cameras next month. Another one coming up is a musical version of Mark Twain's "Huckleberry Finn," with Gene Kelly.

Other classic now shooting are the mammoth "Quo Vadis," in Rome, and Stephen Crane's Civil War story, "The Red Badge of Courage."

Schary points out that many of these classics have a pre-sold audience of children who have read the books, as well as an audience of adults who remember the novels from their growing-up years.

The late Theodore Drieser is supplying his share of literary properties for the movie mill. Universal-International is filming one of Dreiser's short stories, "The Prince Who Was a Thief," with an Arabian Nights setting. Paramount has completed his "An American Tragedy" and is now shooting "Sister Carrie."

D. A. DORAN, Paramount story executive, denying that this presages a trend, says simply that "we love to do a good story whether it is a classic or anything else."

But Doran admits that Paramount has a pile of literary classics which it owns, such as Joseph Conrad's "Lord Jim," which are on hand for filming. "We've got a great library of them," says Doran. "We own just about everything Metro doesn't."

Warner Brothers has finished "Captain Horatio Hornblower," the C. S. Forester sea story, which has become a Gregory Peck vehicle.

WALT DISNEY, who recently released "Cinderella" and "Treasure Island," is now at work on a feature-length animated cartoon version of Lewis Carroll's "Alice in Wonderland," with Sir James Barrie's "Peter Pan' and the fairy tale, "The Sleeping Beauty,' to follow.

RKO has "The Sword of Monte Cristo," derived from Dumas, and Columbia is about to bring out another Dumas tale, "The Mark of the Avenger."

At Columbia, too, "Lorna Doone," based on the Richard Blackmore classic and "Dick Turpin's Ride," adapted from Alfred Noyes' "The Highwayman," are in the works. That studio will soon start filming Sir Walter Scotts "Lochinvar," a romantic costume adventure, which Columbia refers to as "a Western in silks."

ESTHER WILLIAMS goes native and wears this eye-catching pareu (a Tahitian sarong) in the new technicolor picture, "Pagan Love Song," filmed on the Pacific Island of Kauai. Said pareu is of dark red with a yellow floral pattern.

LAURETTE LUEZ has many good reasons for being called a delightful flower in her role of a beauty of the harem who distracts Errol Flynn somewhat in the forthcoming film version of Kipling's "Kim." The picture was filmed in India on actual "locations" described in Kipling's adventure classic.

A Cutlass Stab in the Back!

Pity Those Poor Buccaneers After Hollywood Treatment

For the sake of a movie plot, Hollywood has given historical fact another stab in the back.

At Universal-International, five famous pirates who had never laid eyes on each other were banded together in buddy-buddy style to share a sequence in "Double Crossbones" with Donald O'Connor, who stars in the Technicolor comedy.

Cinematic delineators of Henry Morgan, Blackbeard, Capt. Kidd, Long Ben Avery and Ann Bonney have occupied a tavern in the Tortugas in the year 1700, in spite of the fact that:

(1) Henry Morgan had been dead for 12 years at the time;

(2) Ann Bonney, twenty years away from the historical moment she became one of the first women pirates, was a squawling infant daughter of a Cork, Ireland, attorney and his serving maid;

(3) Long Ben Avery was thousands of miles away, looting ships of the Mogul of India in the Red Sea;

(4) Blackbeard was still an honest sailor on a merchant ship, with 16 years of law-abiding activity ahead of him before he turned to piracy;

(5) Captain Kidd, who swore on the gallows that he was a privateer commissioned by William III, was enroute from Boston to England in chains after one of the least-productive buccaneering careers ever lived.

"So what?" shrugged Lt. Comdr. K. D. Ian Murray, noted pirate expert and technical advisor. "Story tellers have fictionized the true facts about pirates so eloquently that hardly anyone is aware of the truth."

Now Movie Stars Get 'Plastered'

A recent survey showed that seventy-five percent of the stars working on the Universal lot during the 35 years of its existence were "plastered", by Donald Kittitas.

To get the stars "plastered" may have seemed an unimportant job to the casual observer, but old Don Kittitas has always known that without it the best actor or actress in the world might very well be out of focus.

Plastering the stars consists of taping down the stars' positions in front of the camera with adhesive plaster, usually at the toe mark, so that, walking toward camera in a scene, they will not overstep their dramatic bounds.

Kittitas has plastered the mightiest since he first taped the toe marks of Priscilla Dean and Harry Carey.

Raisin-Bran Bread

Here's a good combination for both flavor and high nutrition, raisins and bran. The kids go for this in a big way:

Ingredients: 1 egg; ¼ cup sugar; ¼ cup molasses; 1 cup sour milk or buttermilk; 2 tablespoons melted shortening; 1 cup All-Bran; 2½ cups sifted flour; 2 teaspoons baking powder; ½ teaspoon soda; 1½ teaspoon salt; ½ cup chopped raisins.

Method: Beat egg well. Add sugar, molasses, milk, shortening and All-Bran; mix well; let stand until most of moisture is taken up. Add sifted dry ingredients with raisins and stir only until combined. Spread in greased loaf pan with waxed paper in the bottom. Bake in preheated moderate oven (350° F.) about 1 hour. Yield: 1 loaf (4½ x 9½-inch pan).

Of Interest to Women—

Know Your Hose? Take Buying Tip From This:

More money is spent for hosiery than any other one item in the clothing budget, and the reason may be due to the fact that not enough attention is given to the size and kind of hosiery bought nor to proper care and laundering.

Hosiery, just the same as any other wearing appearel, should be selected for the occasion or for a particular use, and different type hose should be reserved for special dress occasions because they are too fragile for everyday use.

Price Not Guide

Sheer hose, on the other hand, are suitable for both dress and general wear, but are out of place on people who are active in sports and the like. Heavier weight hose are appropriate for household, active sports and winter wear.

Price alone is not a guide to hosiery quality. Some medium and low priced hose may have the wearing qualities sought while other higher priced hose may give poor service because durability was sacrificed for sheerness by the manufacturer.

Learn the Terms

Hosiery buyers should become familiar with the terms used to designate quality in the finished product. First quality indicates a stocking without flaws or irregularities.

All hosiery not thus designated is classified sub-standard and includes irregulars, seconds and thirds. The hose of sub-standard quality must each be marked to show how they are classified.

Irregular refers to hosiery that contain imperfections or irregularities in size, color or fabric but neither stocking in the pair has noticeable mends, runs, tears, or breaks. They could give very satisfactory wear and be a good buy.

Must Fit Well

Seconds and thirds are hose in which one or both stockings of a pair contain noticeable mends, runs, tears, breaks or defects. Seconds contain shorter mends or breaks than do the thirds.

Hosiery must fit well if the buyer is to get the most service and wear from them. Buyers should consider foot and leg length, and width, and calf and ankle measurements because all influence correct fitting.

Generally the foot of the stocking when measured flat should be one-half inch longer than the foot and a fleshy foot may require an even longer foot length.

The best quality and best fitting hose will not give satisfactory service unless they are properly cared for and laundered after each time they are worn.

Let's Make Cook's Tour And Do Some Good Eating

A lot of the fun in travel is in the eating, but if you can't make it around to foreign parts this winter let's go on a little Cook's Tour right here and experiment with some dishes that people like in other climes.

How about, first, some Eggs a la Greta for a little touch of Swedish Smorgasbord? Here's how:

INGREDIENTS: Six to eight hard boiled eggs; one package of green peas; three tablespoons butter; one-half teaspoon salt; dash of cayenne pepper; two tablespoons bread crumbs; two tablespoons grated cheese.

METHOD: Peel eggs and halve lengthwise. Remove yolks and rub through sieve. Pressure cook peas according to chart, or boil in salted water until tender. Mash them through sieve. Mix this pulp with egg yolks, butter and seasoning. Taste for flavor. Place egg whites in greased shallow baking dish. Fill each with generous mound of vegetable mixture. Sprinkle with bread crumbs and cheese. Set oven at 400 and let eggs heat 20 or 30 minutes. Garnish with parsley or radish rosebuds or tiny pickled beets.

• • • •

Chinese Chicken

Oriental dishes are easy to prepare at home, too, as witness this recipe for Chinese Fried Chicken:

INGREDIENTS: One chicken cut into frying pieces; one-fourth cup soy sauce; two teaspoons salt; one-eighth teaspoon pepper; two tablespoons minced green onions; one-eighth teaspoon powdered ginger; one cup hot water or stock from giblets; one-fourth cup cooking wine; one-half cup fat; one cup flour.

METHOD: Sprinkle chicken with salt and pepper. Dip in soy sauce. Rub well into chicken. Let stand five minutes to marinate. Heat fat in skillet, roll chicken in flour and fry to golden brown. Mix wine, ginger and hot water and pour over chicken. Sprinkle green onions over top, cover and cook over slow heat for 45 minutes. Remove to platter and cover with brown gravy. Garnish with toasted almonds and ripe olives if desired.

Mexican veal Birds

And here's one that will please most Southwesterners — Mexican Veal Birds:

INGREDIENTS: Two pounds veal steak; one can Gebhardt's deviled sandwich spread; one-half cup fat, one chopped onion; one chopped green pepper; one can tomato puree; one cup white wine; one teaspoon salt; two teaspoons Gebhardt's chili powder; boiling water.

METHOD: Cut veal steak into three by four inch stripes, Spread with sandwich spread. Roll up and fasten securely with skewers or tie with string. Dredge with flour, then sear in hot fat until golden brown. Remove meat. Fry onion add pepper in remaining fat. Add tomato puree, wine, salt, and chili powder. Bring sauce to boil, add meat and enough water to cover. Reduce flame and simmer 45 minutes or until meat is tender and sauce heavy.

Does Gas Range 'Fit' You! They're Tailored Jobs Now

Hardly a woman now alive would dream of buying a cocktail dress to wear everyday to the office.

Before Miss or Mrs. Shopper puts her hard saved money on the line she decides whether the dress that catches her eye is as suited to her personality and social habits as it is to her fancy.

Today, automatic gas ranges are as tailor-made to a woman's tastes and habits as her suits. What she has to learn now is how to get a good "fit."

There are gas ranges for career girls, gas ranges for women with so many children to feed they don't know what to do, gas ranges for husbands who think they're Escoffiers. And for TV bugs, there are even gas ranges with small TV screens set in the back panel.

How to Pick Them.

Just how does a housewife or career girl go about selecting the range made expressly for her? She can't buy one as she would a dress. The American Gas Assn. suggests she ask herself three basic questions.

1. How much baking, broiling, griddle cooking, top burner cooking does she do?

If she does a lot of baking, she should buy a range with two standard-sized ovens. If she likes broiled food she should buy one with two broilers. One range has an independent broiler with its own burner unit set right under the top burner surface.

2. How large is her family—how much entertaining does she do? Select an according size.

3. How many outside club and social activities is she involved in? Does she work as well as take care of her home? Does she have to leave home often to take her children to music or dancing lessons?

For Busy Women.

Busy women, the association believes, require completely automatic clock control cooking. A clock is set for the time the gas should go on, the foods cook in the oven and when done, the clock automatically turns off gas. There is no necessity for the home-maker to be in the kitchen.

Boy Finds Plenty of 'Pen' Pals

When a 19-year-old boy in Ebute Mettia, Nigeria, British West Africa, asked an American the name of a newspaper in the United States that might help him get "some pen pals for a long time" the American suggested The Echo at Huntsville, Texas.

The other day The Echo received a letter from the boy asking for "as many pen friends as possible.."

He had addressed the right place. The Echo is the official publication cf the Texas state pen.

Rifles at 60 Paces!

Arkansas Editors Fought Duel to Settle Argument

A small group of gentlemen had gathered on the bank of the Arkansas, in the Cherokee Nation across river from Fort Smith; and as they talked, in low but earnest tones, the casual passerby might have figured that a hunt was being arranged—for that crisp morning in the spring of 1845 promised an ideal day for sport.

A little apart stood two of the men, each examining the flint of a long rifle, and each speculatively eyeing the other, but they gave no thought to deer or turkey shooting. This was something different!

The two rival editors from the Arkansas town of Van Buren were about to fight a duel—with rifles at 60 paces!

Politics the Cause

And now, with the seconds stepping off the distance, let us leave the grim preliminaries for a moment to look into the background of the affair.

At Van Buren, the year before, Thomas Sterne and J. D. Logan had founded the Western Frontier Whig, a journal embracing the politics implied in the masthead.

In the same town there was a contemporary but older sheet, the Arkansas Intellingencer, through which Editor George W. Clarke upheld the virtues of the Democratic party.

It was inevitable that the twain should disagree, and when Editor Clarke one day referred to Editor Logan as "Big Mush"—after a comical Indian then at large in the precincts—Mr. Logan, in his next issue, returned the compliment by calling the Intelligencer's editor "Toady" Clarke.

He Chose Rifles

The latter, being of an impulsive nature, resorted to the code and challenged Logan, who accepted and chose rifles, at 60 paces. All of which takes us back to the river bank, the two opponents facing each other with weapons raised.

"Ready, gentleman?" the referee asked, then gave the signal.

The two rifles cracked, almost at the same time, but the duellists remained standing. Both had missed.

There was a slight delay for reloading, and then the editors squared away for another try. The rifles lashed out again, and with no better results than wasted powder and lead, whereupon friends persuaded the gentlemen to shake hands, return to their separate sanctums, and confine their future duels to the printed page.

Went to Texas

Of such spirited nature were many of the early-day Arkensas editors. They wrote strong words, and were prepared to back them up with duels, but they usually shot straighter with the pen than with the rifle or pistol.

John Logan wound up in Texas. The year after the bloodless duel he and his partner, Sterne, closed shop in Van Buren, loaded their printing equipment on a boat and went to New Orleans, where they trans-shipped on a coastal vessel for Port La Vaca, Texas.

Moved to Victoria

Clarke, the rival editor, didn't chase them away. They merely believed that Texas, then about to be annexed by the United States, offered better advantages.

In Port La Vaca Logan and Sterne hired ox wagons and took their press to Victoria where they set up shop in a small frame building and turned out—on May 8, 1846—the first issue of the Texan Advocate.

The paper, now the Vivtoria Advocate, is still publishing today — the second oldest paper of continuous service in Texas.

'How'! American Indians Have Their Say At Last

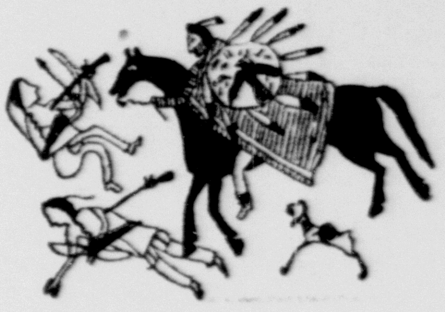
Our "First Americans" do all the talking in Charles Hamilton's new book, Cry of the Thunderbird, and the reader gets a new and novel slant on this countrys history from pre-Revolutionary days down into more modern times.

This modern times fd'etaoishrh

This is the American Indian's own story and it is particularly interesting to Southwesterners because it contains quite a bit of lore from Oklahoma and New Mexico.

Author Hamilton—or, you might say, compiler—has combed various archives pretty thoroughly to come up with documents, letters, pamphlets and other papers in which famous Indians have expressed their views on life in general.

The book contains a hundred stories, with 50 authors and half as many tribes represented. Pontiac, Tecumseh, Sitting Bull, Geronimo, Black Hawk, Chief Joseph are just a few among those represented, and you'll find most of them keen critics of the white conqueror.



Counting Coup .. . a Sioux sketch from "Cry of the Thunderbird."

The writing is fascinating, filled with humor, rignity, naivete and wisdom that wall appeal to young and old alike. Cry of the Thunderbird is a first-rate reading adventure.

The Macmillan Co., New York, is publisher.

Books . . . By, and About, Your Neighbors

Famed Last Stand Fight Given Indian Viewpoint

Southwesterners will be particularly interested in Will Henry's new book "No Survivors," although it has the Northwest for its setting.

For this book is one of the finest Indian war novels ever written—the story of the grim events leading up to the tragedy of Custer's "last stand," but told this time from the viewpoint of the Sioux who laid Custer's command low at the Battle of Little Big Horn.

It's pure fiction in its essentials—the account of an ex-Confederate colonel who was captured by Crazy Horse's warriors and adopted into the Sioux tribe—but the writing is so flambouyantly realsistic that you get the feeling of reading authentic pages out of history.

And, in a way, that is true. Although the story is fictional the background of the Indian campaigns is correct in every detail. The hero, Col. John Clayton, was willing to become a "renegade" with the Sioux because he was embittered by the Army's two-faced policies in dealing with the Indians, and thus the whole story is sympathetic toward the Indian, which is as it should be.

Will Henry, now a Hollywood screen writer, is a fine writer, and it is evident that he knows Indians. Unhesitantly, we call his book the best Western in recent years. Publisher is Random House, New York, price $2.75.

Santa Fe Rail Story Recounted

When it was first proposed to push railroads across the West and Southwest toward California there were many skeptics who believed the projects foolhardy.

One U. S. Senator, Thomas Benton, thought rail lines across some parts of New Mexico and Texas was a ridiculous idea because they would enter country "where a wolf could not make a living."

One congressman, Z. Kidwell, was of the opinion that it "would seem idle and preposterious to talk of doing business in some of the regions, though every conductor be a Kit Carson and every traveler a Fremont."

But there were far-sighted people who went ahead—to build such rail empires as the Santa Fe and open up new country.

All these things are brought out in L. L. Waters new book, Steel Trails to Santa Fe, just published by the University of Kansas Press.

This volume tells the complete story of a rail enterprise, giving the full picture of the Santa Fe not only historically, but from the viewpoint of finance and technology. There's a lot of Southwestern stuff between its covers.

Child's Casket Kept in Attic 38 Years

EAGLE PASS, Tex.—A strange story that might well have come from a book by Edgar Allen Poe was revealed here when relatives of the late Mr. and Mrs. Elpidio San Miguel investigated the attic of the San Miguel home on Ferry Street.

They found a casket containing the bones of the San Miguel's daughter Velia, who died in 1912 at the age of five.

Both Elpidio San Miguel and his wife, Margarita, died last year—the father in April and the mother in September—and neither had ever mentioned to relatives anything about the coffin in the attic.

However, Mrs. San Miguel, when she realized that she was dying, called in a niece, Mrs. Olga Yzaquirre, and told her that there was a cradie in the attic that she wanted her to have when she was gone.

After her aunt's death Mrs. Yzaguirre thought no more about the cradle for awhile but finally, the other day, she sent her hsuband, Antonio, and her brother Jesus to get it.

It was then that the strange story of mother love was revealed. The two men found not only the small casket but an improvised altar set up around it. The story of the cradle had been Mrs. San Miguel's way of disclosing the presence of the casket.

Olga, the niece, and her brother Jesus Moncada had themselves lived in the San Miguel home for many years. They came to stay with the uncle and aunt when they were small children, but they were never told about the casket.

Court house records here show that the little girl died in 1912, and an uncle who still lives here, Felipe Moncado, recalls that her death resulted from tetanus.

Several of the surviving San Miguel relatives recall attending the child's funeral, but none is able to shed any light on how the casket happened to find its way to the attic of the home on Ferry Street 38 years ago.

What's Score With Junior

Conducted by Editors of the Book House Plan for Child Development.

Q1. A "sense of security" is a vital factor in developing independence and self-suffciency in a child. (True or False).

Q2. Is there "something wrong" with the small child who does not seem to appreciate the beautiful toys and other things he is given?

Q3. The idea that eating sweets between meals is bad for children is "an old fashioned notion." (True or False)

Q4. The two-year old who says "no!" to almost everything he is told to do (a) has become a disciplinary problem; (b) is going through a phase of development common to children of that ago. (Select one)

(Please turn page upside down for correct answers)

A1. True. In this bewildering world of ours, a feeling of security is most important in all stages of development. A child's warm sense of identification with his mother, his room, his house give him that feeling.

A2. No, not as a rule. A child must be taught the art of appreciation. He must be helped to understand and to enjoy the objects and the events that make up his universe. This is just as much a parent's responsibility as providing him with food, clothing, and shelter.

A3. False. The child who is allowed to nibble on cookies, candy, and crackers between meals is being cheated of important blood and bone building foods. He is being allowed to satisfy his appetite with sugars and starches at the sacrifice of salts, vitamins, and proteins.

A4. (b) This is a normal sign of his growing independence. Self-assertion is sometimes interpreted as disobedience by parents. nfortunately, this lack of understanding on their part may lead to unnecessary discipline of the child.

What to Expect Of the Child--

Conducted by Editors of the Book House Plan for Child Development.

Q1. A parent can expect too much of the young child in the way of independent action. (True or False).

Q2. Is it wise to prepare the older child for the expected arrival of a younger brother or sister?

Q3. The child who "stands on his head" or does other stunts in the presence of strangers and friends of the family (a) is a natural born show-off; (b) probably craves recognition to satisfy his ego needs. (Select one).

Q4. It is suite natural for very young children to be curious about God, heaven, hell, angles, death, etc., and to ask questions about them. (True or False).

(Please turn page upside down for correct answers).

A1. True. Children lack the ability to act on their own initiative in many situations. When "left to their own devices" under certain circumstances they become confused and get a "lost" or frightened feeling.

A2. Yes. He should be conditioned to look forward to the new baby and to think of it as a future playmate and companion. If he is not prepared in advance for the new addition to the family, he will see it as a rival.

A3. (b)..Children have a need for feeling important in their little world. This is a basic and continuous need that they seem to develop very early in life. The child who is an intolerable show-off may be starved for real affection and appreciation, or he may be spoiled to the point where he feels unsure of his acceptance by others whenever he isn't the center of attention.

A4. True. That is why parents should give this possibility some thought and be prepared to answer such questions intelligently.

Law of Sanctuary Still Holds Good

The age-old law of sanctuary still holds good.

On a recent Sunday at Shaw's Bend, near Ellinger, Tex., the pastor of the local congregation was leading his flock in prayer when an unexpected visitor strolled in through the front door—a tame deer that had been living at the home of Lee Sommerlatte.

The animal, which had strayed into the woods, took refuge in the church when attacked by dogs, thus saving its life. Services were delayed until the deer could be removed and taken home.

When Baby Needs New Pair of Shoes

Eighty percent of all school children have foot troble, says Nena Roberson, associate clothing specialist for Texas A. & M. College.

She says that most of this trouble results from children wearing outgrown and badly fitted shoees.

The first shoe, which the baby wears when he begins to walk, should be made of soft material, with a flexible sole and a full, puffy toe. It should have a very thin heel, or no heel at all.

Miss Roberson suggests drawing an impression of the baby's foot while he is standing on a piece of paper and then selecting a shoe that is one-half an inch longer and one-fourth an inch wider than the foot. This extra room will allow for several month's foot growth.

Wives Drawing Wages

Mystery of Cimarron Rose Among Best Kept Secrets of Oklahoma

Her name is remembered as just Rose - - "Rose of the Cimarron." Nothing else.

The rest is cloaked in mystery - - an Oklahoma puzzle that probably never will be solved now that the principal actors in the old Indian Territory drama have departed from the scene, ushered from the staged by the hand of Death itself.

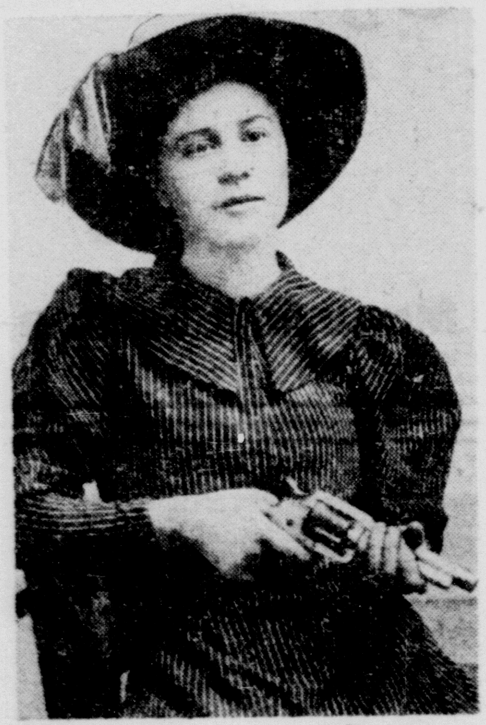
On that score there is only one possibility - - that "the Rose" still lives, an ancient and respected woman in some Oklahoma community - - and that she might, in the deep autumn of her life, reveal her identify. But even that possibility is highly remote.

Chances are that "Rose of the Cimarron" - - the lady with the gun in the picture - - will remain forever an enigma.

This is the story:

In the early '90s the nortorious Bill Doolin gang of outlaws was riding roughshod over the northern Indian Territory, looting banks and robbing stores.

With the redoubtable Doolin rode two members of the former Dalton gang, George Newcomb and Charlie Pierce. With them, too, was the lady known as "the Rose", said to be the sweetheart of Newcomb. Although she took no part in actual raids she tended their camps and helped them find refuge when refuge was necessary.



Lady with a gun—the mysterious Rose of the Cimarron.

The association went on for years until it ended, as outlaw associations usually do, with buckshot. Newcomb and Pierce were shot to death as they lay sleeping, presumably by other outlaws, at a ranch near Pawnee.

Bill Doolin was arrested by U. S. Marshall Bill Tilghman at Eureka Springs, Ark., where he had gone to take mineral baths. Doolin later escaped from jail only to be killed by buckshot from the gun of U. S. Marshal Heck Thomas.

Federal officers then rounded up everybody who had been connected in any way with the Doolin outfit, and "Rose of the Cimarron" was one of those taken.

But U. S. marshals, considering that the gang leaders were now dead, decided to be lenient with "the Rose" and let her go, with a changed name. They agreed that they would never reveal her true identify, and they never did.

Heck Thomas died without talking. Bill Tilghman kept the secret until he was killed at Cromwell, Okla., by a U. S. prohibition officer in 1924. Emmett Dalton, only survivor of the old Dalton gang, always said he knew the story but he didn't talk before his death a few years ago in California.

They would only say that "the Rose" turned respectable and married, and that perhaps her husband never learned of her connection with one of the wildest outlaw bands that ever operated in Oklahoma.

It may be that "Rose of the Cimarron" still lives; it may be that she doesn't. But ,whatever the case, she was central figure in the best secret of the frontier.

The mystery goes on . . .

Socorro Wants Store Raiders Dead or Alive

SOCORRO, N. M.—The business men of this New Mexico city are getting hot under the collar, and any outlaws caught in these parts probably will get some rough handling.

After thieves broke into the Baca clothing store and took $8,000 worth of merchandise a two-column notice in black-faced type appeared on the front page of the Socorro Chieftain in which Baca's offered $50 for the apprehension of the gang.

The Socorro Economy Store raised the ante another $50 and the Chieftain added $35. The notice appeared under the following head: "Reward: Dead or Alive—Preferably Dead."

BRANDS CAN COST

Cattle branding is in the best movie cowboy tradition, but is sometimes an expensive practice. A heavily branded cut of sole leather hide is worth about 40 per cent less than the same cut without the brand.

Southwestern Press Vignettes

All those old jokes about women drivers are beginning to fall flat in New Mexico, according to the STATE LINE TRIBUNE of Farwell, Tex., which comments:

"Teen-age school girls who drive buses in New Mexico have the best record of accident-free operation of any category of drivers. Over-school ladies are next in line, followed by school-age boys, and lastly by over-school age men. What was that remark about women drivers?"

An item in his own paper, the BASTROP (LA.) CLARION told Editor G. B. Herring, Jr., that the Rev. D. W. Burt of Central Baptist would preach about "Seven Ducks in a Muddy River." Said Mr. Herring, in his "Over the Editor's Desk" column:

"This writer couldn't help but go hear that one, with duck season at hand. The way it turned out, the word "duck" was meant as a verb instead of as a noun and referred to a Biblical character being ducked seven times in the muddy River Jordan in order to be cured of disease and sin."

Billiken, whoe page one "Newsgrafts" appear in the VERNON (TEX.) TIMES, seems to believe that bread cast upon the waters will return and so advises his police chief, as follows:

"Memo to Chief Walter Suttle: I see by the papers that over at Stamford the chief of police is helping the visitors in that city by dropping in a nickel in the parking meters, and leaving them a note telling them about it. The plan has had some good results, too, I am told, inasmuch as one traveling salesman sent the chief a dollar bill and told him he appreciated the lift and that the money would help 20 other forgetful people that visited in that city. Okay, chief, want change for a quarter."

R. H. Wessel, who conducts the "Observer" column in the FREDERICK (OKLA.) PRESS, points with pride to his hometown's financial good fortune:

"Frederick is believed to be the only municipality in Oklahoma, and possibly in the entire United States, obtaining funds from its share of oil production. About a thosaund dollars a month is the city's share of the oil wells in the Frederick oilfield according to Mayor Owen Fry."

The editor of the LA GRANGE (TEX.) JOURNAL comes out with a sensible plug for safe driving in his " 'Round the Town" corner. He says:

That little slip of paper called a driver's license is a document of trust. It shows that the State is trusting us as having enough gumption to operate a high powered vehicle on its highways, streets, and roads. It is entrusting us with the operation of a deadly weapon, and assuming that we have enough sense to "point it in the right direction." To overlook any one of the safety rules laid down as a condition of its issuance is to violate your agreement made with the State when it gave you the right to drive."

Ink, Arkanssa is a real place, according to Uncle Zeb, who writes the "Plowin' Out the Corners" column in the DONLEY COUNTY (CLARENDON, TEX.) LEADER. He writes:

"According to Charles Reed; if mail comes to his door the squirrels have to bring it the last 16 miles. Anyway, he had rather we would write him at the post office and let him fetch it out in the pick-up. His Post Office is Ink, Ark. I thought it was a joke or, just something to fool the squirrels but apparently not. Ink is a real place."

Outdoor Notes For Sportsmen

Nelson Crebassa was driving down a moonlit road recently when he witnessed a most unusual sight. A dark shadow swooped down out of the heavens, touched a speeding car ahead, and made off with something in its claws.

Both Crebassa and the driver of the other car stopped to see what the bird had stolen. It was a squirrel tail, snatched from an aerial on the lead car by a hungry owl!

Nature-Born Sleuth

This story sort of stinks, you may have heard it before, but if you've ever had any dealings with skunks, and can stand a little corn now and then, I think you'll like it.

Mama skunk was worried because she could never keep track of her children. They were named In and Out, and whenever In was in, Out was out. If Out was in, In was out. One day she called Out to her and told him to go out and bring In in. So, Out went out and in no time all he brought In in.

"Wonderful!" said mamma skunk. "How, in all this wide forest, were you able to find In in so short a time?"

"That's easy,' said Out. "Instinct!"

Well, anyhow, I warned you . . .

Tough Coon

George Alloway, 80-year-old Ohio farmer, was attacked recently by a ferocious animal in the darkness of his hay loft, where he had climbed to throw out some hay for his horses.

The farmer scrambled down his ladder with what he thought to be a giant tomcat swarming all over him, scratching and biting. Gale, his son, investigated the loft. He also came out fast.

Finally, the local game warden was called in. He discovered the animal to be a female coon. Apparently, bereft of her own young, she had adopted two kittens after driving the old cat away. The warden managed to remove the old coon without injuring her.

Modern David

Pierre Perry, a former French boxer, went to Utah to hunt uranium. When the deer season opened he switched his Geiger counter for a rifle. But Pierre didn't have any luck.

So he switched the rifle for a sling-shot to bring down a chicken hawk. That's when a 165-lb. buck appeared. Pierre flipped a ball bearing into the sling-shot and let fly. The pellet caught the deer just below the temple. Pierre finished off the animal with his knife.

What's Cookin', Doc?

Chum, unless you've collaborated with a squirrel under the conditions described below, you haven't eaten a real Brunswick stew yet! Start it off this way: One small can corn; 1 pint lima beans, 4 potatoes, 1 onion, 1 quart sliced tomatoes, 3 teaspoons sugar, ½ lb. butter, 1 teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon pepper. Clean squirrels (two or three of them) and cut into pieces. To four quarts boiling water, add salt, minced onion, beans, corn, potatoes, squirrels and pepper. Cover and simmer for two hours. Add sugar and tomatoes. Simmer an additional hour. Add butter. Simmer ten minutes, bring to boil, and remove from fire. Add additional salt and pepper to suit taste. Brother, she's good!

Rabbits Lead In All Game Hunted

B'rer Rabbit seems to be on the spot. He's the most hunted animal in these United States.

At least, that seems to be the story following a survey by scientists of the Remington Firearms Co. on the use of shotgun shells.

The survey showed that 29.6 per cent of all shells are used for rabbit hunting, with squirrel hunters next in line with 14 per cent. Quail is third with 13.9, followed by ducks and geese at 10.5; pheasants with 9.5; doves seven per cent, and other game 3.5 per cent.

The statistic gatherers concluded that rabbits and squirrels were most hunted because they are easier to find than other game.

Check On Quails

A checkup on the status of Bob White is being made by the Texas Game Commission, with cooperation from hunters during the quail season.

In an effort to determine the percentage of young birds and get an idea of the survival for next year, the department is making a study on the basis of wings sent in by hunters.

Biologists asked that only one wing from each bird be sent in, together with the date of kill and the county where bird was bagged. Information on the number of coveys seen in a day of hunting also is asked.

He's Got the Big Head!

Wildlife research is bringing out some startling facts these days. At a deer station, experiments partly concerned with antler growth have caused a yearling buck to grow a heavy set of antlers with nine points. The theory is that periodic shots in the legs with hormones might do the job. Next year, this youngster may need a derrick to hold his head up! But game officials can hardly be expected to chase down all bucks in the wild and give them antler-growing hypo shots! Who knows — some day in the future a way may be found to treat soil so that deer, browsing upon growth that carries the chemical, will grow rocking chair antlers with comparative ease.

Guide for Hunters

J. Frank Dobie, famous author, naturalist and outdoorsman, wrote a whole book in one sentence when he summarized the deer hunting problem in an article recently:—"Deer," he said, "may be found in two places. One is where they are likely to be. The other is where they are not likely to be!"

FAST AT FISHING

BETHANY, Okla.—E. N. George won his fishing laurels fast. On a single cast he hauled in 11 pounds of bass—two fish of five and a half pounds each. And he has witnesses to prove it.

GIGGING SEASON OPEN

Oklahoma now has an open season for gigging non-game fish such as carp, redhorse, buffalo and catfish other than the forked-tail variety. Gigs must not have more than three points and two barbs.

Too Many Scalps

The New Mexico Game and Fish Department is getting over burdened with scalps—the scalps of predatory animals, that is.

So great has been the number of pelts and scalps received by the department that Asst. Game Warden Homer Pickens has been issuing public statements pointing out that although hunters and trappers may kill predators the state no longer pays bounties, and hasn't for a number of years.

But still the scalps continue to pour in—along with requests for bounty fees.
